Why you Should Attend?

Not all managers are leaders and not everyone can lead. Leadership is not about following. It requires certain qualities and ability of you to inspire and bring out the best of people. It is about achieving results through people.

As a Colored Brain Leader, it is essential to know your strengths and hidden potentials. This is a motivational and inspirational session to allow you to discover your inner self. We explore the journey to unleash your potentials and understand your limitations in developing your excellent leadership skills. The key to successful leadership is not in their natural gifts, but in their ability to maximize the natural gifts of those around them and to act on what is required by the task at hand.

Participants will get to do the Colored Brain Communication Inventory (CBCI™) tool to uncover your Colored Brain. The purpose is to understand yourself at a deeper level and unleash greater potential in you as a leader.

Who Should Attend?

- Directors & Senior Management
- Managers, Assistant Managers & Team Leaders
- Anyone in the leadership position who aspires to inspire and lead people
